

The Lockerbie bomber was released from jail today and returned home to Tripoli. Obama of course vehemently 'objected' to the release, and implored the Libyans not to greet the little prick as a conquering hero. So what did they do? They gave him a hero's welcome!

Back in the old days our Commander in Chief would have scrambled some Eagles, intercepted the aircraft, arrested the terrorist swine and made him serve out the rest of his sentence in some ass-pounding prison. Who needs change?
